SIRES NO EFFORTS MADE TO GET BAIL FOR HIM. The Rev. Edward Cowley, of the Shephera's Fold, was arraigned before Recorder Smyth yesterday at He was taken from the Tombs in the "Black Maria" in company with a number of prisoners, and was handcuffed to Michael Curry, charged with felonious assault. He was placed in the prisoners' pen in the rear of the court-room until the Grand Jury had been charged by the Recorder, when he was called to the bar. Mrs. Cowley was in the court-room at the time. The clerk of the court named the twenty-five indictments against Mr. Cowley, and his counsel, Mr. Gilbert, interposed for plea "not guilty." Assistant District-Attorney Beil said that he would be ready for trial on Monday, February 9, and the case was set down peremptority by Recorder Smyth for that day. As there was no other prisoner to be returned immed ately to the Tombs, Mr. Cowley was kept for some there was no other prisoner to be returned immediately to the Tombs, Mr. Cowley was kept for some time in the prisoners' ren, and at length was sent in charge of a special officer back to his cell.

A TRIBUNE reporter called at the Tombs yesterday afternoon and was shown to cell No. 94 in the third tier, of which Mr. Cowley is the occupant. He was lying on the bed, and when spoken to rose quickly to his feet. When informed that his visitor was a reporter be hastily said, "There is nothing whatever to report."

"Have any efforts been made to raise the necessary bail for you?" was asked.

"I don't want any efforts made," he answered, and he lay down again and refused to say more. He is of medium height and ordinary size. His har and closely cropped whiskers are very gray and, the expression of his face is forbidding.

The keeper on the 'ier where Mr. Cowley is confined is instructed to keep a sharp watch that he does himself no harm, and from the keeper's place on the "bridge" a full view of the cell's intorior can be secured. Warden Finn said yesterday that Mr. Cowley's appetile was good, and that he ate all of his meals. His wife appeared at the Tombs yesterday norning and asked to be allowed to see her hu-band. The Warden referred her to the District-Attorney's office for a pass, and at 2 p. m. she had not returned. It was said at the office of the District-Attorney's office for a pass, and at 2 p. m. she had not returned. It was said at the office of the District-Attorney that nothing had been done with reference to pracuring bail for Mr. Cowley. It was surgested that the fare at the Tombs was so much superior to that given to the immates of the Shepherd's Fold that Mr. Cowley preferred confinement to release on bail.

SUGGESTING REFORMS AT HOME. ABUSES WHICH THE MARKETMEN ARE ADVISED TO LESSEN-FARMERS WHO DO NOT WISH TO BE

The marketmen composing the Washington and West Washington Market Protective Association met yesterday afternoon in Washington-st. Robert G. Cornell, from a sub-committee of the Executive Committee, reported that the committee had talked with the superintendent and clerk of the markets, It seemed to the committee most proper to begin the reformation of abuses at their own doors. One of these abuses was that the sidewalks were becoming obstructed by those who had stands fronting on them. This was done without authority, but had grown up by sufferance since the time when the stands on the entside of the sidewalks had been cleared off by the city authorities some years ago, Another evil was that men call out their wares and hire boys to stand on the sidewalks and endeavor to make the passers-by stop and purchase. Sometimes hire boys to stand on the sidewalks and endeavor to make the passers-by stop and purchase. Sometimes also language was employed, he said, disagreeable or insulting to ladies. Another evil was that some persons around the market give false weights or send home a poorer article than the one really purchased. These things Mr. Cornell insisted must be stopped if the marketmen intended to keep their business.

A petition was presented and extensively signed requesting the Superintendent of the Markets to remove all the rails, racks, hooks and other obstructions from the outside of the sidewalks about the markets, and to require the standholders to place their names and the number of their stand in a conspicuous place. Much opposition was expressed by several speakers to forcing the farmers to take their produce to Gansevoort-st. The President of the Long Island Farmers' Association said that the farmers had no objection to Gansevoort Market, but they did object to being forced to go there. They wished the privilege of standing on the streets around Washington Market from 7 o'clock in the evening till 9 o'clock in the morning to dispose of their produce. A committee was appointed to wait upon the Board of Aldermen and Controller to-day in connection with committees of the farmers' association, to see if they could obtain the privilege of occupying the streets at certain hours. Another committee of one from each of the kinds of business occupying the market was selected to receive complaints for violations of any of the rules governing the market.

A MINISTER WHO FOUGHT A GOOD FIGHT. AND WITH THE AID OF HIS MUSCULAR SON, PRE-VAILED OVER TWO RUFFIANS.

The Rev. Dr. J. C. K. Milligan, paster of the First Reformed Presbyterian Church in Twenty-eighth-st., between Eighth and Ninth-aves., was returning from Father McNamara's church Sunday night, accompanied by his son Frederick, and was in Thirtysecond-st., between Sixth and Seventh-aves., when two men followed them. At Seventh-ave, one of the two men jumped upon the minister's shoulder, bearing him down, and as he turned he received a blow in the face from a stone which the ruffian held in his hand. The blow was given over the right eye, cutting a gash an inch long in the forehead. minister was partly stunned by the blow, and The minister was partly stunned by the blow, and feil back, the blood spurting over his overcoat and shirt. His son struck at the ruffian, dealing him a terrible blow on the temple, which felled him to the ground, and then defended himself against the second mar, giving him a left-handed blow which knocked him to the sidewalk. Young Milligan, who is only nineteen, is very powerful, and six feet in height. He had searcely time to notice the effects of his blows before the ruffians were on their feet again, and made another rush for the minister and his son, but the latter were both ready for them, and knocked them down. As soon as they recovered their feet they ran away. As they did so one of the men threw a stone which struck Dr. Milligan in the group, indicting a painful wound.

Dr. Milligan is about fifty-two years of age, but is an active, wiry man. The rofflans were large, powerful men. The son has a few bruises on his hands and arms. The assault occurred shortly after 10 o'clock, and the streets at that point were deserted. One of the men was about six feet in height, and the other some three inches shorter. Dr. Milligan thinks be can identify them if they are arrested. He has made a complaint to the police.

SUPERINTENDENT DUDLEY'S FORCE. The Mayor refuses to sign the pay-roll of the De partment of Buildings until Superintendent Dudley explains the composition of his working force. There are eleven inspectors of buildings for the en tire city, while twenty-seven clerks and thirteen messengers are employed. The disproportion in the number of clerks and messengers employed, as com-pared with that of the inspectors, is alleged to be due to the fact that the Superintendent appoints the clerks and messengers without question, while the inspectors must be approved by an examining board. A successor to Superintendent Dudley has twice been nominated by the Mayor, and rejected by the Aldermen. It is understood that each one of the majority of the Board of Aldermen has received at least one appointment in the Department of Buildings.

A LONG AND BITTER CONFLICT ENDED. ALL DIFFERENCES BETWEEN THE DENVER AND RIO GRANDE AND THE ATCHISON, TOPEKA AND

SANTA FE RAILROADS SETTLED BY AGREEMENT. The conflict between the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fé and the Denver and Rio Grande Railroad Companies has been brought to an end. After many conferences between the officers of the two companies an agreement was signed yesterday settling for a period of years the disputes that for a long time have made the companies enemies. Under the terms of this agreement the lease of the Denver and Rio Grande Road is abrogated, the stocks of the companies, which were exchanged under the original agreement, are to be returned, and all litigation between the two companies is to be ended. The receivership appointed for the Denver and Rio Grande Road is to be terminated, and each company is to pay its own counsel fees and the cost of the contest last Summer between the roads for the possession of the Grand

It is provided that the Denver and Rio Grande Company shall have the Leadville route, and that it shall pay for this the original cost of the completed road and $400.000 in cash. It is to pay for the material for the construction of the Leadville line, now on the ground and not used, at a fair market value. The company is not to build its Pueblo and St. Louis Line, and is to stop its extension in New-Mexico about half-way between Conejos and Santa Fé. On the other hand, the Atchison Company agrees not to build to Denver or Leadville, or to any other point west of the line of the Denver and Rio Grande Road. At Pueblo, where the line is to end, it will receive from the Denver and Rio Grande noe-half of the Leadville, San Juan and other Southern business, and at the same point one-fourth of the Denver traffic with Missouri River and other Eastern points. The Atchison Company is granted the privilege of building a line to its coal fields in Colorado, which is to be used for coal trains only. The agreement is to continue ten years, and is to be protected by a decree of the Court. It is not to be affected in any way by the decision of the Supreme Court at Washington which was given yesterday.

PROGRESS OF THE GREAT BRIDGE. PAY OF TWO ENGINEERS INCREASED-THE CON-TRACT FOR STEEL.

The East River Bridge Trustees yesterday decided to abandon the plan of using iron bridges at William and North William-sts., and to span those streets by stone arches. Last Fall the Board ordered one-third of the granite yet remaining to be furnished under the contract to be cut, and yesterday a resolution was adopted ordering this amount to be delivered. The cost will be about $80,000. to be delivered. The cost will be about $80,000. It was decided to award the contract for yellow pure and white oak, for the flooring of the bridge, to W. J. The salary of Engineer McNulty was increased from $2,500 to $3,000, and that of Engineer Probases from $3,000 to $3,600, beginning from October 1, 1879. Controller Steinmetz alone opposed this.

Mr. Steinmetz spoke of the contract with the Edgemeer Iron Company for 5,000 tons of steel for the suspended superstructure, according to which 500 tons were to be delivered by December 1, 1879. He said that in not delivering this amount the company had broken the contract, and that if it fulfilled the contract—the price of steel having advanced—it would have to make the two cities a gift of $250,000. Mr. Kingsley and President Murphy claimed in reply that the contract would be fulfilled to the letter.

The receipts for January were reported to be $151,678 02; the expenditures, $69,958 86.

The immediate effect of this decision was seen yesterday in an application made to Justice Lawrence in the Supreme Court, Chambers, for a writ of certiorari in the case of William F. In this he sets forth his appointment to the Board and his election as president; the charges made against him by the Mayor and the proceedings before the latter. He also presents the protest he made to the Mayor's action (which action he called a "mockery of justice.") when he claimed that no action should be taken until the charges were made definite and certain, and he had had an opportunity to answer them. ALFRED P. BURBANK'S READINGS.

The feature of the entertainment given last evening at Chickering Hall by Alfred P. Burbank was the selection from "Rip Van Winkle." The presentation lacked the familiar accessories-the crags of the Catskills and the gobin Dutchmen, with high-peaked hats, mutely reclining upon the rocks. Mr. Burbank recited the monolegue which Mr. Jefferson has made peculiarly his own, and the applause of the large audience attested the faithfulness of the rendering. Mr. Burbank gave in an ness of the rendering. Mr. Burbank gave in an anonymous selection, entitled "Our Club," an imitation of Henry Irving in the ghost scene from "Hamlet." The words were those of a nursery rhyme; the manner that of the tragedian. The other selections ranged from the "Idyl of Red Guleb," by Bret Harte, and the tender story of a "Basket of Flowers," by Mrs. Stebbins, to illustrations of D 1tch and negro dialects, and to the laughable sketch of "Pat's Panorama." The audience in turn was cheered with laughter and stirred with deep feeling. deep feeling.

OF THE NERVOUS SYSTEM.

The importance of the nervous system. Its power over life and the direct learning which it has on human happiness is thoroughly recognized; its uses and the danger of overtaxing it, whether through intense mental application, or by the excessive indulgence of the appetites and propensities, are proper subjects for consideration. When the nervous system is deranged, it is absolutely necessary to promptly system is deranged, it is absolutely necessary to promptly show the vice from an expert who, for a long set subject to the content of the subject of the vice has derived by the study, and who, from his experience and practice, has learned to discover at once the cause and as promptly apply the common to the incorporate of the content of the derangement, and the time, who, very naturally, wants to know without delay what is the matter, the extent of the decrangement, the probabilities of recuperation and the time required.

exient of the derangement, the probabilities of recuperation and the time requires the second exhausted by intense mental application, destriving it of the power of connected thought, if can only recover its strength by being properly fed and nourished by the use of certain systematic methods. It is precisely the same with the nerves that preside over organic life. The value of this branch of medical practice can scarcely be overrated, for it reaches marriage, the perpectation of family names, the securing of hereditary times, and the reduction of cetates, in the same family.

From a long and large experience in this direction. I have been able to command by my success the transful approximation of some of the first families in the city and nation; and I can communicate onch that pertain to the over-exercise of every department of the nervous system and the means of recovering its powers, whether of brain, appetite, propensity, or passion.
